

Justine van Lawick

When divorced parents fight... Work with violence in families

Workshop is focused on dialogical work in conflict family relationships. When parents fight and demonise each other after divorce and children are caught in the middle. Justin's workshop will consist of:

- Introducing dialogical group work with violent parents
- Using art and music and rituals in systemic practice with conflict families
- Live consultations and/or supervision
- Dialogical training spaces

April 4-5 2014

Justine van Lawick is clinical psychologist, family therapist and director of training in Lorentzhuis, the centre for systemic therapy, training and consultation in Haarlem, the Netherlands. Her areas of interest focus on addressing violent behaviour and demonization in couples, groups and families with compassion for all involved family members and without blaming. She wrote many articles and is a co-author of book Intimate Warfare. She is one of the leading persons of Open network for dialogical practices.

Brno, Czech Republic
Otevřená zahrada, Údolní 33

More info about workshop, accommodation, transport:

www.narativ.cz
info@narativ.cz

Price: 80 EUR

